Overview

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has been charged with enforcing the Commonwealth's Dog Law since 1966. The 40th anniversary mark in 2006 brought an unprecedented initiative to reinvigorate Dog Law functions. Through the efforts of Governor Edward G. Rendell and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement has moved steadily forward to serve our commonwealth's citizens and dogs. A moral mandate drove these many changes.

This initiative started in late 2006, with a focus on enforcement, training and outreach under existing law. An initial focus on new Dog Law regulations garnered a wealth of comments that stressed the need for legislative – rather than merely regulatory reform – and identified stakeholders, including thousands of dog owners, who provided input for this effort. This legislative initiative progressed with an intensive effort pass an improved and updated Dog Law, which was accomplished with the enactment of Act 119 of 2008. The bill was circulated in preliminary draft for comment in December 2007, introduced in early May 2008 and signed into law by the Governor on October 9, with most provisions taking effect on December 8, 2008 and the commercial kennel provisions taking effect on October 9, 2009.

Act 119 achieved an unprecedented overhaul of the Pennsylvania Dog Law that raised the bar for commercial breeding kennel owners and transformed this law into the most progressive in the nation. This achievement was a joint effort by the legislature and administration, with an uncommon amount of input from interest groups representing every segment of the dog world, as well as the general public. The treatment of dogs in kennels is something Pennsylvanians care deeply about, and citizens made their views known throughout the legislative process. The Commonwealth is now a leader in the area of commercial kennels, in addition to its traditional leading role in the show, sporting and working dog arenas, and in caring for homeless dogs through more than 250 nonprofit shelters and rescues.

Implementation of Act 119 has been the bureau's major focus in 2009, and has commanded an enormous amount of time and attention from management and staff. The bureau was also involved in passing House Bill 39 on August 27, 2009 – a companion bill to Act 119 requiring that certain canine surgeries be performed by veterinarians rather than kennel owners. The bureau developed its first strategic plan in 2009 to guide the dog law initiative for the future. The focus on enforcement, training and outreach remains strong, with enforcement efforts aided by tools in the new law which prior efforts demonstrated were necessary.

The initiative gives the bureau an opportunity to recruit, train and deploy persons knowledgeable about law enforcement and dogs. Kennel compliance specialists, a prosecutor and a dangerous dog coordinator have enhanced capabilities in past years. In 2009, the bureau hired its first veterinarian. This has increased the bureau's ability to assess the condition of dogs in kennels accurately, provide testimony about conditions, and offer its staff mandated training in areas such as dog care and treatment, breed and use variability, and preliminary recognition of dog pathology.

Sustained outreach efforts have included replies to thousands of citizen and stakeholder inquiries including Right-to-Know/Open Records Act requests; posting kennel inspections online; establishing an e-mail form and toll-free tipline (1-800-DOGTIP1) to increase access; creating an e-mail news clip service to keep staff, the Dog Law Advisory Board and more than 100 other stakeholders and advocates informed of bureau media coverage; several hundred media interviews; and keynote presentations for the U S Department of Agriculture and Pennsylvania Bar Association.

Highlights of Act 119 of 2008

The bureau's major focus in 2009 was implementing the many Dog Law changes found in Act 119. These changes, with an emphasis on commercial kennels and enforcement, are summarized below to provide context.

The new Dog Law defines commercial breeding kennels, so that minimal standards for these kennels are increased without adversely impacting other types of kennels. The legislation closed the gap between legal requirements and humane conditions in these unique kennel settings. Commercial kennels are those breeding kennels that sell to dealers or pet stores, or sell or transfer more than 60 dogs a year.

The new law provides breeding dogs with doubled minimum cage (primary enclosure) sizes, the opportunity for unfettered access to outdoor exercise in an area twice as large as their enclosure, routine veterinary care including a written program of care and two examinations each year, and solid or slatted "kennel deck" enclosure flooring so they can move normally and without injury to their feet and legs. The provisions in the new law protect dogs from extreme heat and cold, mandate that water be available at all times and prohibit stacking cages for adult dogs and placing cages more than 30 inches above ground level. No more than six dogs may be together in an enclosure and an enclosure may not be cleaned with dogs in them. The act allows these dogs to be euthanized only by a veterinarian. Construction, maintenance and sanitation control standards are set that mirror U.S. Department of Agriculture regulations and, often, current Pennsylvania regulatory standards.

For other types of kennels, Act 119 requires all kennels to have an exercise plan approved by a veterinarian, have fire extinguishers or smoke alarms, display their kennel license, sell puppies at a minimum age of eight rather than seven weeks consistent with USDA, and refrain from buying from unlicensed out-of-state dealers. Current regulations for these kennels remain in place and are not expected to be changed.

Act 119 raises minimum fines for unlicensed dogs from $25 to $50 and raises maximum fines for some violations from $300 to $500. The Act does not raise dog or kennel licensing fees except that kennels with more than 500 dogs must pay an additional $250. The act increases the registration for a dog that has been deemed dangerous by a court from a $200 one-time payment to $500 per year. Dangerous dogs must also be spayed/neutered and micro-chipped to provide increased public protection.

Enforcement provisions in the new law give the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement tools to deal with situations it could not under former law. The law creates a mandatory loss or refusal of license if the kennel owner or applicant has been convicted of animal cruelty within the past ten years, or earlier if there is evidence that person has not been rehabilitated. The new Dog Law also adds additional grounds for revocation, including violations of the Rabies Law or Dog Purchaser Protection Act (Puppy Lemon Law), felony convictions, a final denial of zoning to operate a kennel at the location, and prior license revocations.

Creation of the Canine Health Board is an innovative solution to obtain the necessary expertise to establish certain specific commercial kennel requirements. This volunteer board of nine veterinarians appointed by the Governor, General Assembly, Pennsylvania Veterinary Medical Association and University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine was established to develop guidelines for auxiliary ventilation if the air temperature is 85 degrees or higher; ventilation, humidity, ammonia and lighting ranges; and additional flooring options beyond those specified in Act 119. The Board is also charged with holding hearings to consider exercise plans offered as alternatives to the Act's prescribed unfettered access to an outdoor area.

Miscellaneous provisions of the new Dog Law create a separate seat on the Dog Law Advisory Board for a representative of boarding kennels, and increase the board's statutory complement from 16 to 24 members. The new law also provides for additional warden training in the areas of bio-security, breed and use variability, as well as investigation and prosecution of animal cruelty; mandates two kennel inspections each year to conform to existing bureau practice; and prohibits wardens from carrying firearms on the job. It clarifies that dealers within the commonwealth, dog day cares and rescue network kennels and their "foster" homes fall within the law.

June 2009 – Almost Heaven Kennel closed

- ✓ Bureau worked with Disaster Assistance team from Humane Society of US, as well as PA State Police and various County Animal Response Teams (CARTs), to remove 218 dogs from kennel, provide them temporary care at the State Farm Show Complex, and get them to various area shelters and rescues where they were rapidly adopted
- ✓ Puppies found in trash in upper Dauphin County, worked with HSHA to charge owner with cruelty and abandonment under the Dog Law
- ✓ Online licensing presentation at County Treasurers Association of PA Convention

July 2009 – First Dog Law veterinarian hired – Dr. Danielle Ward

- ✓ A small animal veterinarian, worked in large and small practices and ran her own practice
- ✓ Bear Creek Kennel – 19 Coonhounds seized from this kennel, continuing to operate illegally in violation of Tioga County Court order obtained by Bureau after license revoked, Bureau worked with sporting dog groups, a licensed kennel in Huntingdon County and local shelters and rescues to place these dogs
- ✓ Cease and desist order served on unlicensed Cambria County kennel – Bureau worked with Humane Society of Cambria County to remove 24 dogs after owner tried to hide them on another property
- ✓ Information sharing meeting with American Kennel Club compliance director

August 2009 – House Bill 39 signed, limiting surgical procedures to veterinarians

- ✓ Outdoor bill signing at Capitol draws more than 100 supporters and their dogs
- ✓ New York Times runs article on impact of Pennsylvania's new Dog Law

September 2009 – Bureau wins lawsuits challenging constitutionality of Dog Law

- ✓ Lawsuits filed by Professional Dog Breeders Association alleged various constitutional challenges, tried but failed to keep commercial kennel requirements from taking effect
- ✓ Commercial Kennel Canine Health Proposed Regulations published in PA Bulletin - during 45-day public comment period, 4671 comments are received
- ✓ Meadow Lane Kennel - first revocation of kennel license for final disapproval of zoning
- ✓ CC Pets – first revocation of kennel license relating to Puppy Lemon Law violations, kennel was closed in for six months in April 2009 for violating 2005 Consent Agreement with Attorney General, it never reopened because of Bureau's license revocation
- ✓ Ervin Zimmerman fined $12,900 by Lancaster County court and permanently enjoined from operating kennel

October 2009 – Stricter commercial kennel requirements take effect October 9

- ✓ 23 of 303 commercial kennels close by October 9; an additional 96 close by end of 2009
- ✓ Bureau begins inspection of all commercial kennels and sets compliance plans for each
- ✓ Public hearing held on Commercial Kennel Canine Health Proposed Regulations
- ✓ Brickyard Pet Supply– 28 dogs unvaccinated for rabies seized from illegal pet store in Philadelphia, Bureau works with PA SPCA, charges filed for cruelty, Dog Law, rabies violations
- ✓ Angel Hill Animal Sanctuary – troubled Franklin County rescue dissolves and is taken over by another nonprofit kennel – Bureau worked with Cumberland Valley Animal Shelter, Better Days Animal League and Franklin County District Attorney to resolve this case involving 33 dogs

November 2009 – Two unlicensed kennels closed, over 60 dogs removed

- ✓ Chester County unlicensed kennel – Bureau worked with Chester County SPCA – search revealed 33 dogs in kitchen and breezeway of small home, owner charged with cruelty, Dog Law and rabies violations and later convicted
- ✓ Bedford County unlicensed kennel – after a lengthy investigation, Bureau worked with Bedford County Humane Society to close this kennel, remove dogs and convict owner
- ✓ Bureau issues last of 183 decisions on waiver applications authorized by Dog Law for commercial kennels – 81 granted in part, 102 denied based on ineligibility or failure to show the substantial structural improvements or good faith efforts as required by law
- ✓ Independent Regulatory Review Commission issues comments on Commercial Kennel Canine Health proposed regulations
- ✓ First Canine Health Board hearings held on alternative access to exercise requests – 5 requests considered

December 2009 – Enforcement of new commercial kennel requirements

- ✓ All commercial kennels have been inspected, 3 kennel licenses are revoked and 6 more kennels forced to close for noncompliance
- ✓ Cumberland County kennel license revoked for cruelty conviction unrelated to kennel - kennel closed – license required to be revoked under new Dog Law

2009 Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement Activities – Reporting Mandate

Section 906 of the Dog Law includes a call for the Department of Agriculture to share with the Pennsylvania General Assembly a report outlining relevant activities related to the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement. The actual language of the report requirements is set forth below, and calls for 11 data points that can be used to gauge the performance of the bureau and the work being done across the commonwealth. Detailed numbers or charts for each of the requested data points are included in this report (as well as charts of dog and coyote livestock damage claims). The location of each chart will be noted as it is discussed in the narrative below.

The information required by Section 906 – quoting actual language - includes:

- Number of State dog wardens by county [see Appendix A]
- Number of dog licenses issued by county [see Appendix B]
- Number of kennel licenses issued in each kennel class by county [see Appendix B]
- Number of out-of-state dealer licenses issued by the Department [see Appendix B]
- Total moneys collected from license fees [see pie chart on page 18]
- Number of kennel inspections performed, including numbers broken out by kennel class, the number of dogs kept at each inspected kennel and the county of location [see Appendix C]
- Number of kennel licenses and out-of-state dealer licenses refused, revoked or suspended and the reasons for such refusals, revocations or suspensions [see page 16]
- Number of citations issued by county and the disposition of each citation [see Appendix D]
- Number of dogs seized and impounded and the total reimbursements made by the Department for the transportation, care and feeding of such dogs [see Appendix E]
- Total payments made by the Department from the Dog Law Restricted Account and the reasons for such payments [Appendix F]
- Recommendations to improve the administration and enforcement of this act [see pages 19-21]

License Metrics

Dog licensing in Pennsylvania serves a variety of purposes. The tracking of licenses gives Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement personnel insight into the dog population in Pennsylvania, provides dog owners with a tracking mechanism to help reconnect with lost dogs, and financially supports the work done across the commonwealth to protect dogs and regulate dog-related activities.

Using a formula from the National Council on Pet Population Study and Policy and 2008 population data by county, only 36.5% of the Commonwealth's dogs are licensed. This number must be adjusted slightly upward because of one-time lifetime license sales, but is still considerably less than half. In general, less populated counties have higher percentages of dogs licensed.

Dog licenses in Pennsylvania are sold through the 67 county treasurers. Revenues collected from the sale of annual and lifetime licenses go into the Dog Law Restricted Fund. Philadelphia County and the cities of Harrisburg, Altoona, Erie, Pittsburgh and Scranton have their own dog licensing programs and, as such, handle the licensing process and retain licensing revenues. For this report, the total numbers of licenses includes counties where these cities are located (except the county of Philadelphia, congruent with the city), but the revenue numbers do not reflect the monies kept by these cities. Full metrics on licenses issued in 2009 can be found in Appendix B of this report.

Dog Licenses

In 2009, there were 949,250 individual dog licenses (914,185 annual and 35,065 lifetime) issued, generating $5,810,404 in revenue. In 2008, there were 929,445 such dog licenses issued, generating $5,648,918 - dog license sales increased by two percent and revenue by nearly three percent (accounting for the higher cost of increasingly popular lifetime licenses) from 2008. Twenty-one of the 67 Pennsylvania counties increased their license sales at least one percent from 2008, and six counties increased their sales by more than 10 percent. Bucks County, which did a general mailing rather than a mailing limited to prior year license holders, and completed its first full year of online license sales, nearly doubled its 2008 license sales (83 percent increase). Allegheny County again sold the most licenses at 102,587.

The Bureau focused on increased online license sales during 2009. At the close of 2008, only seven counties offered online license sales, with four starting in December 2008. By the end of 2009, 21 counties were selling licenses online. During 2009, the Bureau provided materials to counties on different online options and features, presented a seminar at the County Treasurers Association convention in June, worked with that group's Dog Law Committee Chair to pilot a new online sales program, and fielded varied questions from interested treasurers. This effort increased sales, and is expected to increase sales more significantly in 2010, the first full year of online license availability for many counties.

Section 200 of Act 119 now authorizes treasurers and agents to collect and retain the cost of a postage stamp, in addition to $1, for each dog license sold. This was a needed and appreciated change, which will be fully implemented in 2010. It also requires treasurers to submit an electronic file of dog license holders to the bureau once they have the capability to do so (14 can now do so). The bureau has not previously had this information, and this will open the door for communication with dog owners throughout the state.

Kennel Licenses

A kennel license must be obtained by anyone who has or transfers 26 or more dogs, for any purpose, during the course of a year. The bureau licensed 2,345 kennel locations in 2009, resulting in revenues of $462,400. The number of licensed kennels decreased by more than 12% (2,674 in 2008), and kennel license revenue fell by 5.5% ($490,925 in 2008). Some of this decrease was small private kennels for which licensing had been optional. A full listing of kennel license numbers can be found in Appendix C. Before any kennel license is issued, bureau personnel complete an opening inspection to ensure that the kennel is compliant with the Dog Law and regulations. Similarly, before any kennel is closed, bureau personnel perform a closing inspection to ensure that less than 26 dogs are kept, and that all have current individual dog licenses and veterinary rabies vaccinations.

Of the 2,344 kennels licensed in 2009, Lancaster County was home to 254, comprising nearly 11% of the total kennels in Pennsylvania. This included 116 kennels licensed to have more than 100 dogs and puppies a year, and 71 licensed to have more than 250. Second was Chester County, with 141 kennels but only 11 were licensed to have more than 100 dogs in a year. Bucks County had the most licensed kennels with fewer than 51 dogs; Allegheny, Chester and York Counties had the most boarding kennels; and Bucks and Montgomery Counties were home to the most non-profit kennels.

Out-of-State Dealers

The bureau licensed 51 out-of-state dealers in 2009, a nearly 100% increase over 2006 levels (26 dealers licensed). This generated $31,025 in revenue. This growth has been fueled by the bureau sending letters to apparent out-of-state dealers to educate them on the commonwealth's licensing requirements. All 2009 kennel applicants were also sent a list of licensed out-of-state dealers for reference, and this information was placed on the department website. Unfortunately, the revenue from these licenses will decrease sharply next year, resulting from a September 2009 federal court decision that, in future years, these dealers can only be charged the fee for their license class and cannot be charged an additional $300, as they had been since 1982.

Dog Law Inspection and Enforcement Activities

The PADogs software program, initially rolled out in January 2007, supports the work that is done in the field by the dog wardens and kennel compliance specialists who complete the inspections. Regulating the nearly 2,500 kennels and approximately 2.7 million dogs in Pennsylvania requires a mobile, field-based staff that is able to support kennels and dog owners as they strive to meet the law, as well as enforce sanctions against those who do not. Continued enhancements were made to PADogs and PADog Warden (an offline version of the system with upload capabilities used by field staff) in 2009, most notably a new kennel inspection report with additional fields for use in commercial kennel inspections. The bureau's software focus group, formed in 2008 and comprised of management, information technology and contractor representatives and knowledgeable users from each region, now meets periodically to update and streamline the PADogs data system.

Licensed kennels in 2008 that did not renew for 2009 were checked in Spring 2009 to see if they had closed, restructured or were operating illegally. The bureau continued its practice of informally sharing information with the U.S. Department of Agriculture on kennels inspected by both – there are 250 USDA licensed kennels in Pennsylvania, representing commercial dealers and breeders who sell wholesale. The bureau also met with American Kennel Club compliance personnel and began systematically sharing its kennel license revocation and refusal data, which has resulted in several

AKC registry suspensions. The bureau also works with local authorities on zoning and other topics of interest.

Kennel Inspections and Number of Dogs

A total of 5,472 kennel inspections were completed in 2009 – 177 of these were commercial kennel compliance inspections after 10/9/09. The bureau now inspects every licensed kennel twice a year as required by Section 218 of Act 119 (rather than as a matter of policy only). The bureau’s goal is also to re-inspect unsatisfactory kennels within 2-3 weeks, and to require that two dog wardens be on site to inspect all kennels (other than pet stores) with a license to keep more than 150 dogs per year. These commitments stem from the recognition that even a six-month inspection cycle could create windows where unsatisfactory conditions may exist without the knowledge of bureau personnel, and a concern that a lack of quick follow-up with non-compliant kennels could allow unhealthy situations to continue while dogs suffer. The bureau provides an abbreviated kennel checklist form to the kennel owner at the time an inspection occurs, with check boxes for categories on the inspection report, in advance of mailing the official report.

In 2009 kennel applications, kennels reported the following numbers of dogs kept and sold/adopted:

Dogs Kept	Dogs Sold/Adopted
823,151	147,899

Boarding kennels count dogs by visit, so if the same dog stays at a kennel multiple times it is counted each time for reporting purposes. Subtracting boarded dog figures, and nonprofit kennel figures, since dogs also do not stay permanently at a shelter or rescue, gives a figure of 118,379 dogs homed in licensed kennel. A full breakout of the location of kennels and number of dogs kept at each is included in Appendix C of this report.

Kennel License Terminations, Including Refusals, Revocations and Suspensions

There were 128 kennels that closed voluntarily during calendar year 2009, and 29 kennels licensed in 2008 that did not reapply in 2009. The majority of these kennels closed for personal reasons such as retirement or relocation, with some closing to avoid pending or potential enforcement action by the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement.

The bureau formally revoked or refused 15 kennel licenses – counties involved were Berks, Bradford, Butler, Chester, Cumberland, Lancaster, Lehigh and Lycoming. Nine other licenses were surrendered as a condition of an enforcement action – counties involved were Berks, Chester, Franklin, Huntingdon, Lancaster and Tioga. The bureau revoked, refused or sought these licenses based on animal cruelty convictions or Dog Law violations stemming from unsatisfactory kennel conditions – grounds under the former Dog Law. The Bureau also revoked its first license based on closure for violations of a Dog Purchaser Protection Act (Puppy Lemon Law) consent agreement, its first license for a final denial of zoning permission to operate a kennel, and its first license for allowing a person convicted of cruelty to play a role in a kennel operation. These are three grounds for revocation added by Act 119. Although the bureau had previously revoked a kennel license for a cruelty conviction unrelated to operation of a kennel, it is now mandated to do so by Act 119 and did the first mandated revocation in 2009.

Act 119 makes it a misdemeanor and authorizes administrative penalties against a kennel that continues to operate after its license revocation or refusal is final. It also imposes strict conditions on kennels under suspension, that are appealing revocations or refusals, so that they must submit to inspections, cannot breed or acquire dogs, and can sell or transfer dogs only with the bureau's permission. It further sets a clear process to deal with an illegal, unlicensed kennel, which is now served with a cease and desist order imposing conditions similar to a kennel under suspension. These new enforcement provisions have lessened the need for the bureau to file injunction actions against these scofflaw kennels, although this remedy is still available and injunctions were granted during 2009 against kennels in Lancaster and Tioga Counties.

Various enforcement actions were coordinated between the bureau, local humane society police officers and police officers during 2009 in which dogs were seized by or surrendered to humane police officers because of cruelty or neglect. Several focused on licensed kennels in Berks and Lancaster Counties. Abandoned dogs and dogs from illegal, unlicensed kennels were also seized by or surrendered to humane society police officers in Bedford, Bucks, Cambria, Chester, Dauphin, Lancaster, Philadelphia, Sullivan and Wyoming Counties.

Citation Issuance

In 2009, 4,198 summary citations were issued, as well as 84 misdemeanor charges. These numbers include both kennel condition citations and citations for other violations of the Dog Law, including but not limited to failure to license, dogs running at large or abandoned, and dangerous dogs. There were 63 citations issued in 2009 for operating unlicensed kennels, compared to 48 in 2008 and 7 in 2006. There were 143 kennel citations for unsanitary or inhumane conditions (not including post-October 9, 2009 citations relating to commercial kennel requirements) and 122 for various records violations including 110 for rabies vaccination violations. A full list of the citations issued by county is included in Appendix D of this report.

Dogs Seized and Impounded and Total Related Reimbursements

In Pennsylvania, the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement plays a critical role in managing stray dogs. Currently, there is a provision setting holding and disposing fees for these dogs at $30 per dog by Section 25.1 of the Dog Law regulations. The bureau covers this $30 per dog fee, sending the money to the local entity that receives the stray once it is picked up. Statewide payments for stray dogs were $448,920 in 2009, for 14,984 dogs, up from $333,140 in 2008 as a result of a fee increase from $20 to $30 per dog. This data can be found in Appendix E.

The statutory term "dogs seized and impounded" is somewhat misleading, as there are separate dog seizure provisions in the Dog Law (a dog can be seized from kennels when the license has been finally revoked or refused, or from illegal unlicensed kennels). Prior to 2007, dogs had not been seized under the existing provision for many years, if ever. In 2009, the Bureau seized 218 dogs from a kennel in Lehigh County, following a license revocation, under the new Dog Law. The bureau also seized 19 dogs from a kennel in Tioga County after tips indicated the kennel had resumed operations after a revocation.

Dog Law Financial Reports

The Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement sees a number of funds coming into and out of the restricted fund that sustains the bureau – no tax dollars are used to fund the bureau. This money is kept separate from other Department of Agriculture general funds to better track the monies coming in from dog and kennel licenses and manage the funds being sent out to local shelters and industry organizations.

Information is provided below on 2009 bureau financials, and a detailed financial statement is included in Appendix F of this report.

Licensing Fees

In 2009, $6,303,829 was collected in licensing fees. This number consists of individual dog licenses, kennel licenses and out-of-state dealer licenses. A chart is included below showing the total contribution from each license segment.

In addition to the money generated through licensing, the bureau received $73,365 from fines and penalties (the amount the bureau receives is capped at this amount by Act 64 of 1987) and $44,652 from miscellaneous fees. Other income of $429,360 came from interest on existing balances in the restricted fund, 42% of the $1,022,118 earned in 2007.

Dog Law Restricted Fund Payments

Payments are made from the Dog Law Restricted Fund as a part of normal operating procedure, covering the costs of bureau staff, operating expenses, equipment and fixed assets and the money given to entities such as humane societies that shelter and sometimes pick up stray dogs.

The payments from the Dog Law Restricted Fund in 2009 were:

$5,128,152	Personnel costs
NOT PAID IN 2009 ($411,000 PAID 3/2/2010 FOR 2009)	Interfund reimbursements (representing a 13 percent administrative billing to all restricted funds)
$2,329,013	Operating expenses (including $448,920 holding and disposing fees for stray dogs)
$0	Fixed assets (no vehicles purchased in 2009)

$577,360	Grants to and animal control contracts with shelters
$24,104	Carbon County animal control contract
$20,881	Domestic animal damage claims

The ending balance of the Fund on December 31, 2009 was $11,199,592, down from $12,840,976 on December 31, 2008 and $14,156,278 on December 31, 2007.

Domestic Animal Damage Claims

The Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement pays claims for damage to domestic animals. In 2009, these expenses were $9,982 for damages done by coyotes (Act 119 of 2008 increased this damage cap from $20,000 to $75,000 and provides that claims exceeding the cap roll over to be paid the following year), and $10,899 for damages by dogs (there is no cap for this payout). In 2009, there were 101 coyote claims and 44 dog claims, for a total payout of $20,881. This information is found in Appendix G of this report.

Recommendations and Plans for 2010

The Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement, as part of its multi-faceted initiative begun in 2006, has made extraordinary strides in five areas: enforcement, staff and training enhancement, outreach, improvement of the laws governing its activities, and implementation of that law. Securing the bureau’s financial future will be the new focus of 2010. Enforcement, professionalization of the bureau and outreach are areas where focus must be maintained for future years. The Commercial Kennel Canine Health regulations, and improved funding for shelters that care for stray dogs, are the remaining areas where legal improvements are needed. Implementation of all provisions of Act 119 of 2008 will be completed during 2010.

With the enforcement tools of Act 119, a commitment on the part of bureau personnel to aggressively enforce the law, and the closure over the past three years of the Commonwealth’s worst kennels, the enforcement picture has brightened considerably since 2006. Kennels in the Commonwealth that put profits above the welfare of their dogs, were not willing or able to run a dog kennel, or hid their kennels to avoid inspection and accountability, have been closed or forced to improve by bureau oversight and enforcement actions. This will continue. In this effort, the bureau has found invaluable partners in national animal welfare organizations, humane society police officers, local and state police, shelters and rescues around the state, USDA inspectors and investigators, AKC compliance personnel, veterinarians including those in the PVMA and at the University of Pennsylvania veterinary medical school, County Animal Response teams, Magisterial District Judges and District Attorneys throughout the state, the Office of Attorney General, zoning officials, Dog Law Advisory Board members and the many citizens who offer information to the bureau about illegal activities. The bureau estimates from past experience that at least 15 percent of the kennels recently closed have not really closed for good, and further enforcement will be required. Dog hoarding, abandonment, cruel and neglectful treatment, and the failure to provide dogs with basic license and rabies vaccine protection are continuing problems that our bureau will handle.

In 2010, the bureau will complete its professional team with a Director of Enforcement. This person will supervise and manage the bureau’s enforcement activities, train and direct wardens in complex investigations and enforcement actions, testify in court, establish standard operating procedures for enforcement, build relationships with other law enforcement professionals, and train external partners such as Magisterial District Judges and police in Dog Law and Rabies Law. Because much bureau training in 2009 was limited by necessity to Act 119 provisions, and training topics mandated by Act 119, a broader training will be offered in 2010. Dog Law Advisory Board members will be asked to complete a training capability inventory so that their expertise can be more widely utilized for training. A policy manual project will be completed.

With the basic implementation of Act 119 winding down during 2010, the bureau will have the opportunity to increase outreach to stakeholders such as non-commercial kennel licensees and local government officials, and prepare materials such as frequently asked questions and fact sheets, for website as well as presentation use.

The bureau has found it increasingly challenging to find shelter for the stray dogs that it, as well as police and animal control officers, are required by law to detain. On the one hand, nonprofit shelters are often unable to bear the cost of caring for these dogs, and have had mixed success in shifting even a part of these costs to the municipalities where the dogs are found. Some shelters now decline or limit stray dog intake based on lack of a municipal contract, finances generally, changed mission or space allocation. On the other hand, nonprofit kennels that are not open to the public and do not have adequately sized or staffed kennels are seeking bureau approval to take in strays. Warden time and expense in transporting strays to neighboring counties has been substantial. This issue has not been resolved at the county or township level to date.

Some solutions proposed include:

1. Raising dog and/or kennel license fees so that the bureau has increased funds to reimburse shelters for this service;
2. Legislation such as House Bill 369 and Senate Bill 931 that would impose a dog license surcharge and create a County Dog Shelter Restricted Account to provide a funding stream for shelters taking strays;
3. Creation of county shelters built on municipal land, funded by all county municipalities and possibly staffed by county work release prisoners and/or community service probationers;
4. The option to voluntarily contribute for this purpose when purchasing a dog license online.

The bureau, with the assistance of a committee of the Dog Law Advisory Board, will study this issue in 2010 and work towards its resolution.

The bureau has strived, to the extent possible given increased expectations and demands it must meet, to spend its user-fee funding conservatively. The goal was to maintain a surplus in the Fund that would generate interest income, ensure continued availability of grants to shelters for stray dog care, and maintain the health of the Fund. Although it is not yet reflected in the Fund balance, $4 million is slated to be removed from the Fund as a result of Senate Bill 850, the bridge budget bill passed on August 5, 2009 so that salaries could be paid to Commonwealth workers pending final budget passage. This involuntary depletion of the Fund will decrease the solvency of the Bureau by three years, causing the Fund to be in distress by Fiscal Year 2011-2012 and in deficit by Fiscal Year 2012-13. Increased dog license canvassing and online license sales will occur in 2010, and will drive dog license sales up, but not enough to solve this problem. A commitment to quality over quantity of kennels, one of the bureau's core values, will effectively prevent increased kennel license revenue unless fees are increased

The bureau is also financially hurt by Act 64 of 1987. This law, which provides funding for the judicial computerization project, caps the amount of fines and penalties received by the bureau at the 1986-1987 fiscal year level, approximately $70,000. This represented only 25 percent of the fines otherwise owed to the bureau in 2009, and only 16 percent of those otherwise due in 2008. Given that this project is largely completed, legislative relief from this cap is urgently needed and would return to the bureau a sizable source of self-funding.

Summation

Much was achieved in 2009. At the direction of Governor Edward G. Rendell and with the support of the General Assembly, Pennsylvania has become a model state based on its progressive new Dog Law, its aggressive enforcement of its laws protecting dogs, and its unprecedented transparency to many interested parties including the general public. These changes befit a state with thousands of kennels and millions of dogs. The teamwork of a special deputy secretary and bureau director committed to the welfare of dogs and to prompt and knowledgeable interaction with the many publics served, a prosecutor managing legal cases, a veterinarian providing expertise during kennel inspections and training, a team of specialists to inspect large and problem kennels, and sharp and dedicated county wardens and supervisors throughout the commonwealth has created a new paradigm for the enforcement of the Dog Law.

(1) This revenue will decrease for future years, resulting from a 9/11/09 federal court decision that these dealers can be charged only the fee for their license class and cannot be charged an additional $300, as they had been since 1982.

(2) Miscellaneous revenue includes, but not limited to, fines and penalties, dangerous dog registrations and rabies self-certification fees.

(3) Includes shelter dog control contracts & Carbon County dog control contract.

(4) Administrative Overhead is a 13% charge for support services provided to the Bureau by PDA. No charge was made in 2009; a $411,000 charge was made on 03/02/2010 for 2009.

(5) Senate Bill 850, the bridge budget signed by the Governor on 8/5/09, authorized the removal of $4 million of surplus from this Fund – this is not reflected in this statement and will reduce the ending balance to $7,612,671.
